

Farmers Decree Quails Shall Not be Killed.

(Fredericktown Democrat-News.)

Every shot fired this season at the quails that are wintering in the farmer's fields is a shot at the farmer's pocketbook, is the opinion of a large circle of Madison county farmers who are barring hunters from their premises.

The open season on quail does not legally open until today (November 10th) but practically every farmer within any reasonable distance of Fredericktown has decreed that there shall be no open season this year. The columns of this paper have carried numerous warnings to hunters to keep out, and almost without exception those giving the warning have expressed their determination to invoke the law if hunters cross their fences.

Farmers report that locally quails are far more plentiful than for many years, perhaps due to the mild winter last year and the year before.

The attitude of the farmers in prohibiting the killing of the quails is caused by an increased understanding of the value of the birds in destroying insects. Quails are known to destroy millions of hibernating bugs that would otherwise awake next spring to fall hungrily upon the fields and gardens.

"While you fight the chinch bug, redouble your efforts to increase Bobwhite quails," says A. C. Burrill of the Missouri College of Agriculture. "They are said to eat from 500 to 1000 chinch bugs at a meal, and their stomachs crave another meal every two hours. At least this is the usual rate of digestion in most insect-eating birds. Quails are the only wild birds which specialize on chinch bugs in the winter season."

Many hunters complain that they only want to kill squirrels and rabbits, but the farmer has long since learned that a bunch of quails furnishes a temptation too strong for the average man with a gun in his hands. Then, too, several valuable animals were shot last season, gates were left open, wire fences damaged by climbing over them and other injuries inflicted which justifies the general warning to "keep out."

Will Blossom Again in Spring.

Fruit trees have put out fall blossoms in many Missouri counties this year and several inquirers have asked the Missouri College of Agriculture if this will have an injurious effect on next year's fruit crop. "The cause of so many fruit trees blossoming at this time of the year is due solely to weather conditions," answers R. V. Gardner, chairman of the department of horticulture. "In the sections of the country where extreme drought in the summer is followed by an autumn of heavy rainfall and warm sunshine, trees are apt to put out a few blossoms. Where only a few blossoms occur the trees will bloom again next spring, but trees which blossom profusely in the fall will probably not bear fruit next year. It is not unusual for plums and cherry trees to put out fall blossoms when conditions are as we have described, but apple trees do so very rarely."

Judge Dearing convened circuit court here in adjourned term this morning with the Carr bank robbery case on the docket for trial. If no continuance is taken, there will be an interesting legal battle at the trial. The state will be represented by Prosecuting Attorney W. A. Cooper and C. H. Richeson of Potosi, James Booth of Union, and B. H. Marbury of Farmington, while the defense will be handled by Bass & Bass, a well known law firm of St. Louis. A large number of witnesses has been summoned to give testimony at the trial.—Potosi Journal. Later—Trial of the case was continued until December.

Potosi Journal: "Mr. W. N. (Billie) Wood surrendered the throttle of the engine of the Potosi Branch train for good and all when he finished the day's work last Monday evening, being retired on a substantial pension by the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. in reward for his long and faithful service. He began his railroading career in 1873, at the age of 17, on what is now the Wabash system in Missouri. In 1873 he began his long service on the Iron Mountain and on September 10, 1876, came to work on the Potosi Branch as fireman, to become engineer the year following. In this occupation he had continued ever since until he retired as stated. Some four years ago his friends here decorated him with a gold medal in appreciation of his long and efficient service on the Branch as well as of his general goodfellowship. While Billie will no longer toot the whistle of the old chocebo, may he live long in the peace and comfort of this reward for his faithfulness and toil."

The Guillotine. The guillotine was named after Dr. Joseph Guillotin, on whose suggestion it was introduced into France during the revolution in 1792. The instrument consists of two upright posts, with a crossbeam at the top, the posts being so grooved as to allow the falling of a heavy steel knife, with a slanting edge, upon the neck of the victim, as soon as the cord holding it in place is released by the executioner.
